What is ONSEN?

温泉とは？

According to the Onsen Law, an Onsen is defined as hot water and water vapor that springs from the Earth either naturally or from artificially-bored holes. The Onsen water needs to be higher than 25°C or needs to contain one out of 19 selected minerals and substances.

温泉法によると、温泉とは「地中から湧出する温泉、鉱水及び水蒸気、その他のガス(炭化水素を主成分とする天然ガスを除く)で、温度摂氏25℃以上、または別に定められた19種類の物質のうち一つが含まれている物」をいいます。

How to Enjoy ONSEN

温泉の正しい入り方

Step 1

Wash your body before entering the bath.

湯舟に入る前には必ず、洗い場にて全身を洗って汚れを落とす

You must wash yourself and rinse thoroughly before entering the bath. Please sit down on the chair and shower thoroughly in the washing space otherwise you may upset others.

Step 2

Do Kakeyu, rinse your body with hot water.

体の末端から頭に向かって「掛け湯」をして、お湯の温度に体を慣らす

Kakeyu is like a warm-up for Onsen to get used to the water temperature. Pour hot water from the tip of your body (feet & hands → legs & arms → body → head). Getting your head wet before entering the hot bath is important especially during the cold winter.

Step 3

Do Hanshin-yoku, soak half of your body.

湯舟には静かに入る。最初はみぞおちまで湯に浸かる「半身浴」を

Slip into the bath carefully up to your waist and get used to the water temperature. Hanshin-yoku is recommended if you have problem with heart or lungs. Relax and stay quiet while bathing.

Step 4

Try Zenshin-yoku, soak up to your shoulders.

「全身浴」では身体を浮かせたり、手足を動かして血行を促進させる

Soak up to your shoulders to do Zenshin-Yoku after Hanshin-yoku. You can put your head on the edge of the bathtub and let the rest of your body float to feel the buoyancy. Also, moving your hands and feet in the water helps your blood circulation.

Step 5

Leave the bath without rinsing your body.

顔が汗ばむ程度で湯舟から出る。温浴効果を保つため、体は洗い流さない

The appropriate timing to get out is when you have sweat on your forehead. Leaving the minerals of the Onsen water on your body is healthy and not rinsing means that you won't feel chilly after the bath. If you have sensitive skin, you can of course rinse off.

Other Tips

- Do not put towels in the bathtub.
- Wipe your body before getting back to your locker.

Please don't stress out about onsen! It's all about enjoying it in your own way.
