

FIEJA Enjoy the sceneries with the Suruga bay and Mt.Fuji at the Port of Shimizu and Miho Peninsula

The Port of Shimizu is known as one of the three most beautiful ports in Japan. You can enjoy the overwhelming spectacle of the mighty Mt. Fuji, the scenery places such as Nihondaira, Miho no Matsubara (one of the cultural assets of the Fujisan world cultural heritage site), and Izu Peninsula in the distance.

Also, the Port of Shimizu once prospered as a tea exporter, and now boasts the largest frozen tuna landings in Japan. You can enjoy tuna and fresh seafood in Shimizu, too.

Long-established Japanese soba noodle house near Shimizu Port

houraitai

9 houraitai 蓬菜亭

[Japanese soba noodle]

Founded in 1919, Houraitai has long served for its Shimizu port neighborhood healthy dishes of soba noodles. Their signature soba noodles are made of carefully selected domestically produced buckwheat flour, and the soup does not contain any chemical seasonings or white sugar. The vegan soba is only served by this house around the area. A noteworthy dish is their Akamoku soba, which is made with a species of brown seaweed called "Akamoku", a superfood caught in Suruga Bay and the coast of Japan. At night, people enjoy fresh sashimi and the owner's recommendation of the day along with alcohol beverages.
